AT THE WHITE CITY

Mayor Long Takes in the Sights of the Midway Plaisance.

GENUINE IRISH CLEOPATRAS

Bright-ered Maidens From Siverywhere-An Experience in the Big Ferris Wheel.

More than anything else, the michray plaisance tetckees the cosmopiltan character of the foir, for while at other scalities you see the different nationaliies, yet they are more or less surroundthes, yet they are more or less surrounded by American effects, while in the midway they are nationalized, being surrounded by houses of their own, modes of living and dressing typical of their own countries. Some wag claimest he went into the Egyptian section and accused a modern Cleopatra of being Irish, and of lately having been a waiter dri in a li-cent restaurant, whereupon the answered: "Bad luck to yea; den't give away the snap, for as share as shootin I was born in Cork;" but I be-lieve this wag was joking, for I found everything genuine

How to Arrive.

To go there take either the intra-mural; or, if you are going from the city, take the Cuttage tirore cars, and get off at Fifty moth street.

The first thing of interest is the Hungarian erpheum (where they charge 10 cents a gims for beer). Hereeverything from the band down to the small boy in the corner smarks of liungary. The music is very picusing, being played not only vivace, but mostly fortissino; in other words, when they tackle a musical instrument, whatever musical qualities distributed to the public. There is a roof garden Lice, where you are waited upon by fair dameels, arrayed in colors that with eavy, and the queen of Sheba change her mind about Sol's having a cinch on the latest styles from Puris. It bee not cost anything to get in here but it does to get out.

The Lapland Village.

The Lapland village next claims our attention. The weather was propitious for them, being breezy and zeplyrs fanning the ambient air (this expression I consider as particularly fine), but when the mercury tegins to climb, they will wish they were either in an ice house or They have some reindler here, es, and ouries to sell.

The Dahomeys come next, and cander ompels me to say that if we would only dopt their style of dressing, bank failers would not be so frequent in this country. They seem stuck on on their air, and with this appendage properly djudicated, a broad smile, a lot of the great features here. The basket to it will hold twenty resple. They charge $2 a trip and seem to be doing a good business. A former experience kept me on terra cotta or rather firms. I once went up in Prof. Lowe's Indicen when it was with the army of the Potemac. Resides the morterror I especienced as I looked down to earth, our southern friends, new happily reconciled, annused them-selves by bring shells at us, and I made a vow then and those that if I ever reached the curth, with a whole skin and an unimpaired constitution, I would and or universal to the proper are fastened to this particular balloon and tighten when it caches an attitude of about 1,500 feet. It is fed by an origine.

Now we will cross the avenue again and land in Old Vienna, a delightful resort, really a village where the Austrians hold full sway. Its rentaurant is espec-ially noticelite, with its superbrause, its preity girls and a very superior and tempting bill of fare. The collectis of a quality to tempt a sybarity. A visitor cannot help but notice here all the old countries of the eastern hemisphere are given to gay colors. Old Vienna is a restful place, and same to be a general rendegenous

Habrabbing With the Araba.

Now we cross again to the Algerian and Tunoun village, where the sight is one of inverse, transferring the visiter to the country of the typical Arabs. These are the gentlemen who ride swift horses, and who can sit on their sides as well as their backs. They have no code of warfare, the only full being to lick their encioses when they can, and being unsuccessful, to run like the old. Harry, The village has a mount half and the poculiar style of music that is grown in Talking about music! Oh, that Wagnertan act supt at the Chicaso village! It is emongh to make one shair stand on and, being a cross totween the arm indelged in by a Thomas cat inviting his partner to a nigh stillinght ten and the slying gross of the villian in a locent show. But they there it is lovely, and as they have led listen to it all the time and I do not, I have nothing further to say on the subject. To a person who likes less, it is served here in its parity, and in its infusion the rarest of chemical art is displayed. There is idea a basear of sike, embraideries are ornamented table ware, in which the dragon ments and as tidy as a parior.

They Occasionally Kill a Man. There is also an ice railway near dy. It is really a nice tobaggen and skating rink constructed of artificial ice made on the spot. Owing to some imperfection in construction they kill a man once in awhile, but if the rictims hold out it will probably be remedied after awhile. I no not my this discourageingly for if people wish to alice on the plainly the duty of some one to offer himself us a sacrifice on the principle that vision at decirance et pro-patria. that while at decrease est pro patria.

The Vicena cufe is another delightful place, with its pleasant slade autistic, tastily arranged interior. Here is one of the finest cales in the grounds and the Antics of the Big Wheel.

We again from the avenue and look up at the Frechs whose, the biggest thing of the simi in the world. There are found to steel and icon. Between them are hing on pivots near the top, at that they always return the perpendicular position at the perpendicular slowly, every slowly, so as its give a greek rise of the accessy. You busy your fiction old couls for two turns of the loos out and you will see that up position buildings are cutting up queer auties by either jumping up or setting down without any regard to their weight or the rule of gravity, while the woods and the city of Chicago are behaving in a like unseemly manner, but when you reach the top this all disappears and the view is grand in the extreme. This im-pression is of the same character as of perions of when you are sitting in a rational ceach with another train on the track beside you. When the other train starts the opposite way, it seems as if your train was the one which was

Now we follow the crowd into the street in Cairo and here we are in Egypt sure enough. The desoundaries are unliking up and down the paved street, while the driver sings out, "Look ow it," all the English he knows. At the end of the street are mats, on which these ungainly bensis fold up their legs so as to allow the passengers to mount. They then arise by sections, to the infinite chance of damage to the vertebru, and the sensation of taking a ride on them is one something like the olden times of youth when you had done something wrong of a minor degree, which the domestic court compromised by giving you a good shaking for. The little dockeys are liberally patronized. They seem to either be all back bone or deficient in intelligence, for no matter deficient in intelligence, for no matter what weight you put on them they walk right off with it. The donkeys are accompanied by native drivers, who seem to be accompashed firts and who asked every preity woman who rade the donkey to come and see them in Egypt next

The Major and the Nautch Girls On each side of the street are stores, where the handiwork is on display and for sale. Among other curiosities is a caudy they make which looks like cotten might look after it had been hackten might look after it had been hack-led. They make hot waffles that melt away in your mouth and their women are very pretty, with complexion like an early Crawford peach, teeth of pearl and eyes, the glances of which en-rapturing. I have heretotore disap-proved of Antony's conduct as far as Cleopatra was concerned, but after this I am going to reserve judgment on all subjects until I am fully acquainted with the cause. They have a theater here, where the girls dence; that is they call it denoine. They do that is, they call it dancing. They do not move their feet, but contort with the muscles of the abdomen, and the effect is entirely original and decidedly startling. These old fellows who eventually evolute into nummics were no summer

In the German Village.

In the German Village.

The next place I struck was the German village, which you reach by crossing a drawbridge, and then you enter a conscience seem to complete their toilet. At home their diet is very simple, being missionary on toast, but here amid the enlightment of Chicago, they have a more elaborate menu.

The captive bulloon, the top of which can be seen from the street, rue, boule vard, or strasse, I don't know which, as I am now in a foreign country, is one of the great features here. The basket Hockheimer, Santerne, Moselle, Cha-Hockheimer, Santerne, Moselle, Cha teau, Margaux, and such like a dla rants. I tried some which was brought to me in a glass which was all handle and no bowl (but the handle was both grotesque and artistic), and then they charged me twenty cents for the experience. From here you can walk through Germany and see it in many forms, in booths, buildings and beer.

The Libbey Glass Works. They charge 10 cents to go in here with a provise on the ticket that they will credit you the price of admission on any purchase you make. The arrange-ment is one that for commercial calculation and financial strategy almost approaches grandeur in its proportions, for when you ask the price of anything, you at once become convinced of the truth of the words of the stump speaker in a political compaign when he "Fellow citizens, you may say what you please the consumer pays the freight" The exhibition, however, is well worth double the price of admission. It is true the operators are great blowers, but to some effect. They were making a glass dress for Princess Eulalia when I was there and it promises to be very beautiful. The glass is spun into threads by being wound around a drum while heated, and in this way woven into a warp of silk.

There is another glass spinning exhibit near the Meorish palace, which I did not examine.

Beautiful Persian Women I also ran across the Persiana. Their girls are extremely beautiful and dress with exquisite tasts. They have a fine exhibit of rues, Danuacus scimeters. diggers and other articles made in that

There are two Irish villages, one called Donogal Castle, where there is a display of Irish lines, laces, counter pages and a little of everything else under the sun that is made by man or woman, including some decidedly pretty Irish girls. The other is called Blarney Castle and contains a piece of the Cosmopolitan Beauties.

Across the boulevard is a building denoted to the congress of beauties, consisting of choice selections of lovely disussels from all the nations of the world they are there, all alive and were it not that I am afraid that it would make the others mad. I would say which I thought was the pretthed one. I have forgotten one thing, the East Indian burnar, the display in which is very handsome, con-sisting of multitudes of wares, all old and unboue and artistic. They are all for sale and the purchasers are

I had intended to give a more extensite notice of other things I saw, but just se the dew from heaven was beiginsing to fall I ran up against a building devoted to the Zeepraxiscopic axhibit. Not desming it safe to be out after dark with this name in my possession, I left the scene of so much interest and went to other orthographical localities. J. W. L.

The Approaching Dinner Hour is fraught with no pleasant anticipations for the unhappy mortal plugued with dyspepsia. Appetite seldom, discomfort after and be-tween meals, always is his portion. Heartburn and flatulence subsequent to eating, a gnawing at the pit of the stomach before it, are only a few among the wees arising from this truly impish complaint, Sick headache nervousness, constipation and biliousness are its diabolical offspring. Each and all of them are annihilated by Hostelter's Stomach Bitters, which tones the gastric organs and regulates the liver and the bowels with cercoons, as can be seen from their houses, which were built for both comfort and elegance, with their jalousies and lattices, projecting oriels and other things too numerous to mention. I was very much pleased with this street, as it is a perfect object lesson all the way through.

Mandrake Pills have a value as a household remedy far beyond the power of language to describe. The family can hardly be true to itself that does not keep them on hand for use in emergencies.

MANDRAKE

Is the only vegetable substitute for that dangerous mineral, MERCURY, and while its action as a curative is fully equal, it possesses none of the perilous effects.

In Constipation, Mandrake acts upon the bowels without disposing them to subsequent Costiveness.

No remedy acts so directly on the liver, nothing so speedily cures Sick Headache, Sour Stomach and PILLS.
